

Project:	IMAS (Institute for Marine and Antarctic Studies) Pump Station – Civil Works The pump station supplies seawater to the IMAS research facility controlled by the pumps and switchboards located in the concrete panel building.
Location:	Taroona, Tasmania
Principal:	University of Tasmania
Project Scope:	Civil works including foundations, retaining walls, vale pits and access road. Construction of pump station using concrete panelling, installation of seawater supply inlet pipes to the pump station and outlet pipes to the research facility.
Contract Value:	$2.8M
Project Year:	2019/20
Project Duration:	3 months
Contract Type:	Contact and Variation Sum
Unique Compliance:	Work within local community on the foreshore, managing a busy pedestrian walkway between pump station and foreshore.